

"Jurassic World: Dominion" Reactions

Jurassic World Dominion storms theaters this week and the first reactions from those who got to see the much awaited final installment in the Jurassic World trilogy before its release have started to set fire online. Early reactions to the film have been mixed, from positive to negative. With some praising the film for its nostalgic value; thanks to several actors for their return who were featured in Jurassic Park films. While some have reviews for the film being too long. Ofcourse, many people have a lot to comment about the dinosaurs shown in the film.

Jurassic World Dominion stars Chris Pratt and Bryce Dallas Howard, as well as Laura Dern, Jeff Goldblum, and Sam Neill from the Jurassic Park films. Jurassic World Dominion, directed by Colin Trevorrow, takes place four years after the destruction of Isla Nublar.

Jurassic World Dominion, director Colin Trevorrow

Destruction of Isla Nublar shown in Jurassic World: Fallen Kingdom

Dinosaurs now coexist and hunt with humans all over the world. This precarious balance will now reshape the future and determine whether humans will remain as the apex predators on a planet they now share with history's most terrifying creatures.

Keeping the reviews aside, one must certainly go and check this film in the theater for its marvelous animation, visual effects, background sound and scintillating photography.