This art show sheds light on the history of UAE, specially on the iconic hotel of Dubai, Burj Al-Arab and its location on the man made island in the Arabian Gulf.

"We had a fair idea of paying tribute to the iconic architecture of Burj Al-Arab, the building that is significant to the history of the city and which had put Dubai on the international map two decades ago," states Lorenzo Fiaschi, co-founder of the gallery. The lush interior design of the hotel, developed by Khuan Chew, took inspiration from the four elements of nature: Water, Air, Earth and Fire.

Waterbones 2022 of Italian artist Loris is located in the center of the gallery space and represents water particles. The work's structure, made up of hundreds of steel modules, responds to and contrasts with the hotel's undulating arabesque curves.

Artwork by Pascale Marthin Tayou simply gives a humanitarian touch like the "Lampedusa D" of 2016 which represents the Mediterranean island of Lampedusa which is well known for its scenic beaches and picturesque views. It's also known as the landing point for refugees who are seeking asylum after their dangerous sailing in the Mediterranean Sea.

The title of the exhibition "New Wave" is indeed a reflection of the region's growing aspirations for contemporary art. Having participated in the Dubai Art Fair since its inception in 2008, Galleria Continua has a long history in the city of Dubai. Among the well acclaimed international artists like Anish Kapoor and Michelangelo Pistoletto represented the Italian duo Ornaghi and Prestinari.
